Phil's Foray into the world of music has been a short but exciting journey as he continues to develop and hone his skills and sound for audiences far and wide. Growing up in a family that stressed creativity and versatility, Phil was able to develop himself in several different facets of life. From playing the saxophone at an early age, to being a key member of his high school sports teams, in on or another aspect of life Phil was destined to make an impact. He was exposed to music at an early age. From Miles Davis to Michael Jackson, his tastes were diverse and rich. Classic rock and Jazz fusion continued to influence him. Soon he began to delve into the depths of soul and funk music which gave him a deep appreciation for groove and soul. In high school, the beats of J Dilla and other hip hop pioneers inspired him to be creative and always strive for listening to what was unique. After discovering the world of dance music during his senior year of high school, the journey has now sped full force to Phil combining his talents and love of hip hop and dance music to create a two headed DJ who is always equipped to rock a dance floor.
